

Basic Life Support Session in all halls

Proposed by- Ms Aayushi Bansal
Convener, CoSHA

Basic life support (BLS) is a level of medical care which is used for victims of life-threatening illnesses or injuries until they can be given full medical care at a hospital. It can be provided by trained medical personnel, including emergency medical technicians, paramedics, and by qualified bystanders.

It is extremely important for us as students of IITK, to be aware of how to handle this basic level of care.

A session has already been conducted on institute level and it is proposed to be conducted in each hall in collaboration with Health Centre for a reach towards students.
